The bell rang: it was time for recess! Leo ran to the playground, his heart eager to play. He looked around and decided that today would be the day he made a new friend.

Leo saw Pedro playing with a ball. "Want to play with me?" Leo asked. Pedro didn't even look back and kept kicking the ball by himself. Pedro thought, "My ball is new, and I don't want to get it too dirty." Leo felt a little sad, but he didn't give up.

Next, Leo saw Bia drawing on the bench. "Can I draw with you?" he called out. Bia just shook her head "no." She thought he wouldn't like "girly" drawings. Leo thought, "Oh man, does no one want to play?"

Leo sat in a quiet spot under the shade of a tree. He thought maybe he wouldn't make any friends after all. But he knew one thing: it was okay if they didn't want to—everyone has their own way of doing things.

Suddenly, Leo heard a little noise near the grass. It was Lucas, holding a toy dinosaur and making "ROAR!" sounds. Leo's eyes lit up instantly!

Leo took his own dinosaur out of his pocket. Lucas looked, smiled, and said, "My T-Rex wants to be friends with yours!" The two of them started laughing and created a big toy forest.

They played for the entire recess! Leo realized it was fine that Pedro liked soccer and Bia liked drawing. Not everyone will want to be our close friend, and that’s perfectly okay.

The most important thing is to treat everyone with respect and kindness. And when we least expect it, we find someone who likes the same things, and a real friendship begins!
