A young son asked his father for his share of the money and decided to travel far away. He wanted to play without any rules, spending everything on toys and sweets, never worrying about tomorrow. He said goodbye to his family and set off, feeling happy!

In that distant land, the boy spent every last coin on parties and foolish things. Soon, all his money was gone! To make matters worse, a food shortage hit the city, and no one had anything to share with him. The little boy felt very sad and all alone.

Driven by hunger, he found a job taking care of pigs in the countryside. His tummy rumbled so loudly that even the pigs' food began to look delicious. He sat on the ground, wept, and remembered the warmth and abundance of his father’s home.

The boy thought, "Back at my father’s house, even the servants eat well! I will go back, apologize, and admit that I was wrong. I don’t deserve to be a son, but perhaps I can be a helper." With a heart full of longing, he gathered his things and began the journey back.

From afar, the father saw his son returning—tired and wearing tattered, old clothes. The father wasn't angry at all! He ran forward with open arms, gave his son a tight, loving embrace, and kissed his face. He was deeply moved to see his little one again!

The son said, "Father, I was wrong, and I am truly sorry!" But the father, filled with joy, called his servants and said, "Bring clean clothes, new shoes, and a beautiful ring for my son! He was lost, but now he has returned to us!" Their father threw a huge party to celebrate!

The older brother arrived home from work and heard the celebration. Upon learning the reason, he became angry and refused to go inside. He said, "I have always obeyed you, yet I’ve never had a party!" But his father explained with great affection, "Son, you are always with me—but we simply had to celebrate!"

The father explained that the brother who had been lost had returned! True love holds no grudges. When we repent from the bottom of our hearts, God welcomes us with unconditional love, abundant mercy, and sincere forgiveness—without any resentment!
